

Jennifer Quan has over twenty years of experience working with elected officials and non-profit organizations in legislative services, policy development, policy analysis, campaign activities and conference/training programs.

Prior to joining to the League staff in 2001 she worked in the California State Legislature where she worked on state legislative and budget concerns. She also worked on local campaigns where she was responsible for field operations including volunteer recruitment and grassroots efforts.

During her service with the League, she has worked closely with local officials organizing training programs and assisting with legislative advocacy. Jennifer currently serves as the League's Regional Public Affairs Manager for the cities in the San Gabriel Valley. In this capacity, she works with city officials on grassroots and legislative advocacy, coalition building and media activities. In addition, she also serves as the Executive Director for the League's Los Angeles County Division providing support for day-to-day-Division administration and operations.

Jennifer earned her bachelor of arts in economics from the University of California, Irvine and a master's degree in public policy from the University of Southern California.

Jennifer volunteers for a number of local non-profits, and currently serves on the Board of Directors as Treasurer for the Southern California Children's Museum.

Jennifer lives in Altadena with her husband, Jon Livingston and son, Jack.
